Fourth Annual Ruth Benedict Lectures

Presented by

GHASSAN HAGE
University of Melbourne

THE VIABLE AND THE BEARABLE

This lecture explores the production of bearable life. It explores the way bearability is a governmental positioning at the borderline between the viable and the non-viable that characterizes marginality today.

Monday 23 March
4.10 PM
Sulzberger Parlor,
Barnard Hall,
Barnard College
Reception to Follow

These lectures are made possible through the generous funding of the Department of Anthropology and the Institute for Social and Economic Research and Policy, Columbia University.