

CITIES MATTER

The Role of Cities in Promoting Health

Much attention is currently focused on national policymaking, but cities and states matter too. This event, featuring a keynote by Professor Michael Nutter, the former mayor of Philadelphia, will focus on the critical role that cities can and should play in shaping policies that promote population health.

Tuesday, December 5
International Affairs Building, Room 1501

11:30 a.m. Networking Lunch
12:00 p.m. Keynote and Panel Discussion
2:00 p.m. Adjourn

CONTACT:

212-851-2384
bb2822@columbia.edu

REGISTER AT:

<https://goo.gl/MPPQ4j>

KEYNOTE SPEAKER

MICHAEL NUTTER
FORMER MAYOR,
PHILADELPHIA

PARTICIPANTS

CHARLES BRANAS
ESTER FUCHS
DIANA HERNÁNDEZ
MALO HUTSON
VINCENT SCHIRALDI
ROSE CUISON-VILLAZOR
JANE WALDFOGEL

Columbia Population Research Center
Advancing Research in Population, Health, and Society

 COLUMBIA | SIPA
School of International and Public Affairs

 COLUMBIA
SCHOOL OF SOCIAL WORK

Make waves. Move mountains. Change lives.