The Institute for Social and Economic Research and Policy will provide carrel space to graduate students in the social science departments as collaborative space. Departments will be allocated a group of carrel spaces based on their request and availability. Students will be assigned a specific carrel/workstation and cannot share the assigned space, move to a different carrel, or invite other students into IAB2. A student who receives an assigned carrel/workstation will be required to reserve the space via YArooms. At any time, an ISERP administered project may require the relinquishment of a student carrel(s). ISERP will work with departments to provide as much notice in such instances.

In addition to the carrel space, the IAB 270 Suite provides a common area with a refrigerator, microwave, and sink that are available for use. ISERP is providing antibacterial cleaner, gloves, wipes, and hand sanitizer. Each student is responsible for wiping down the space after each use. If you are using the pantry area or lounge to have your meals, you must observe the 6ft social distancing requirement. You can remove your mask to have your meals and you must wipe down the area after each use.

The space will be allocated under the following guidelines:

1) Students must follow the COVID-19 Public Health Protocols
2) Upon completing the above, students will need to check-in via the ReopenCU COVID-19 Symptom Self-check App
3) The students are required to reserve their assigned carrel at least 24 hours in advance. Reservations and instructions can be found on our website http://iserp.columbia.edu/iserp-workstations
4) Students will follow University guidelines for social distancing
5) Face masks must be worn in all common areas
6) Carrel spaces should not be viewed as permanent space
7) Students will wipe down surfaces they are in contact with using disinfecting wipes provided by ISERP
8) Students should not store items in desk drawers, keys will not be provided in compliance with the collaborative space requirement
9) In the event that the University is required to reduce capacity on campus, you will need to be prepared to vacate the space with your belongings. We encourage you to not bring items beyond the most essential needs to complete your work
10) Departments will coordinate occupancy with ISERP’s Administrative Unit
11) Carrel space will be reevaluated on a semester by semester basis
12) Departments cannot reallocate student space to staff, faculty, visitors or employees
13) Students will be provided an access code to enter the 270 suite. Students will also be provided swipe access to the IAB 2 Extension
14) Students cannot use carrel space to hold TA hours
15) Students will be respectful of other students and researchers in the space
16) Students who wish to listen to music or videos should comply with a headphones-only experience
17) Conversations on cellphones is prohibited in the open area
18) Students are responsible for their personal items
19) Students should communicate maintenance issues by email to iserp@columbia.edu
